About Me

Hi! My name is Arnav, and I'm 15 years old. I have an interest in pursuing computer science as a career. My hobbies include playing the guitar, playing games and listening to music. I live in Mumbai, and I'm currently doing IBDP at Podar International School.

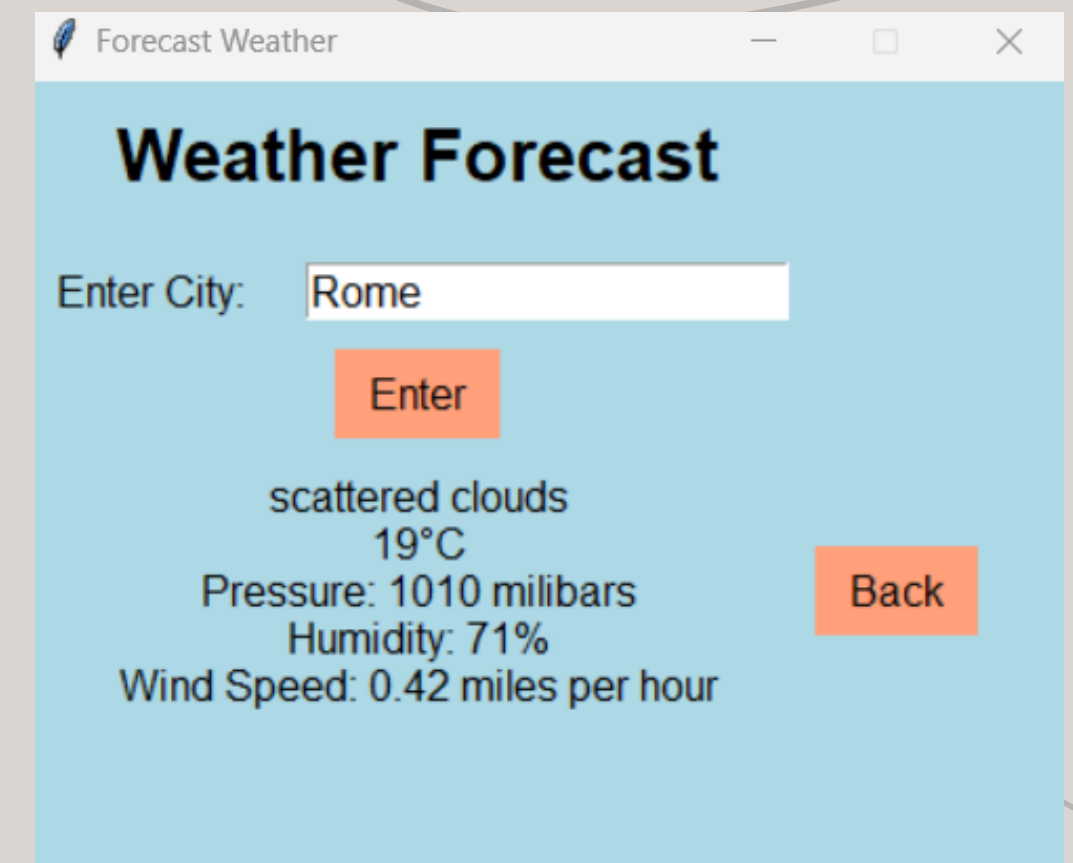

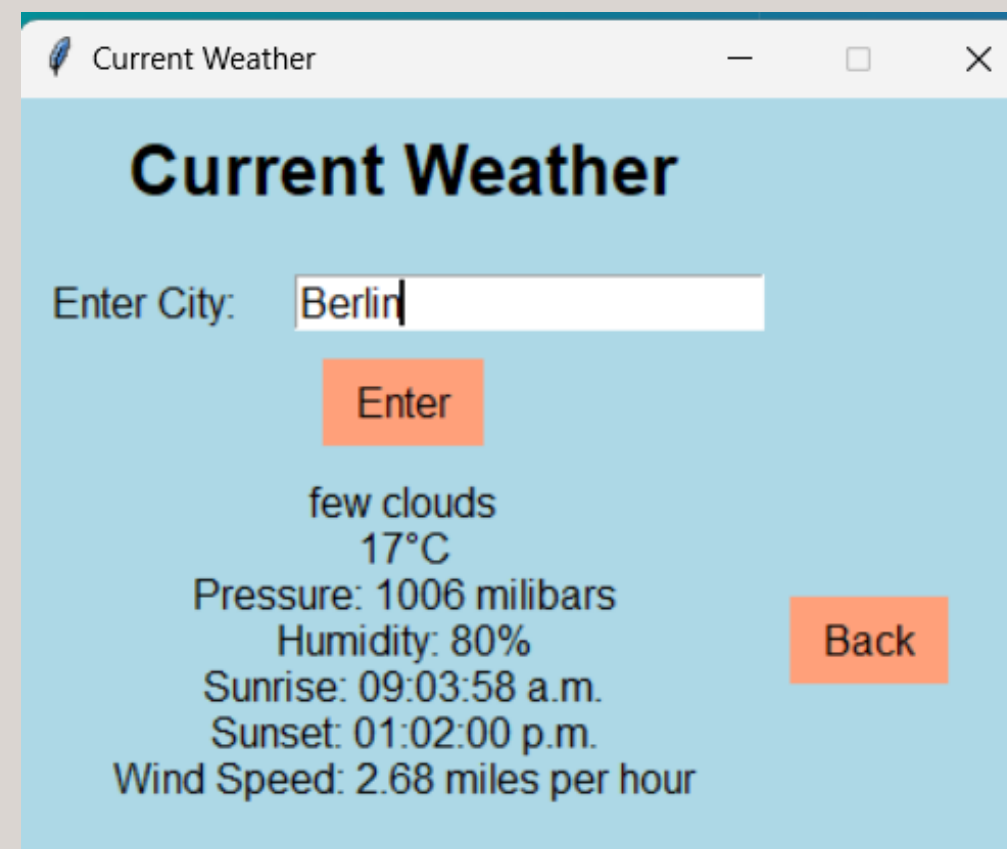

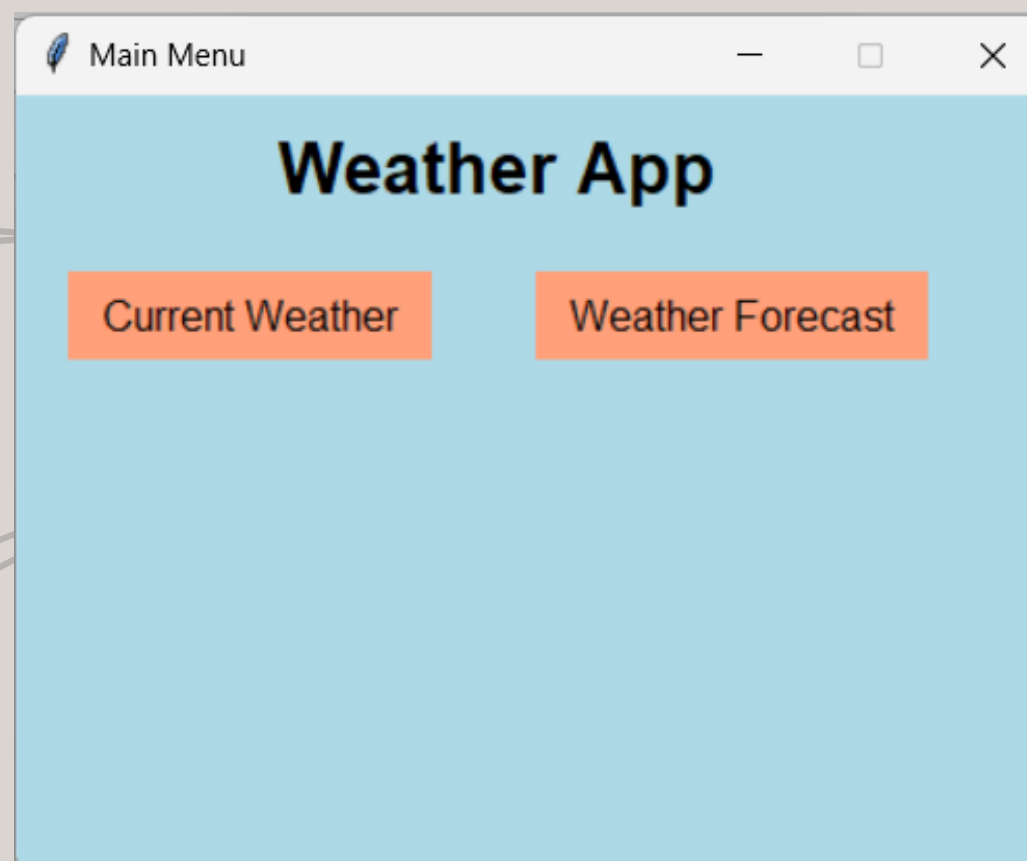

My Experience

The internship has taught me a lot about python and many new libraries, it has also provided me with motivation to work upon projects related to python and the resources required to work on those projects.

About App

The weather app allows you to view the current weather and the weather forecast. Clicking on buttons in the main menu opens up a new window for each feature (current weather and weather forecast), here users can enter in the name of any city they want and receive information on it's weather. They can also use the back button to return to the main menu and try out another option.
